

MAKE PEACE WITH YOUR SLEEP EXERCISE

OVERVIEW

The following exercise is to be used in conjunction with the, "Trauma Treatment Online Program" for best effect. Please visit www.WhatIsPTSD.com for additional resources.

After trauma, many people struggle with reclaiming a regular sleep pattern. It may be difficult to fall asleep, or you might wake up throughout the night after a disturbing dream and then not be able to fall back asleep. Or maybe you wake up early in the morning leaving you feeling tired for the whole day. Whatever the struggle, there are several things that you can do to help improve your sleep.

We need to start with the basics of sleep hygiene and then I want to talk to you briefly about what to do when you wake up in the middle of the night or you simply cannot fall asleep at any time.

GOAL

The goal of the Making Peace with your Sleep Exercise is to help you break through the barriers that may be keeping you from a restorative sleep. The exercise below provides you with basic steps for sleep hygiene as well as exercises to assist you to remain calm when you cannot sleep. Remember, if you become anxious because you cannot sleep – this creates a vicious cycle where your anxiety about sleep further undermines your ability to relax and allow sleep to happen.

TIME OUT

Always reflect on your inner state and notice if you need a break from the exercise to find your inner calm.
